

Subject: Responsible Disposal and Management of Electric Vehicle Batteries

To Whom It May Concern,

Changan International Corporation, operating through its subsidiaries Mobitech Co. Ltd. and Changan Auto Southeast Asia Co., Ltd. Thailand, hereby writes to formally address the matter of battery disposal for electric vehicles sold within the territory of Nepal.

As a company deeply committed to environmental responsibility, we wish to assure the concerned authorities that the end-of-life management of our EV batteries is handled with the utmost care and in full accordance with applicable environmental standards.

Battery Durability and Warranty

Our batteries are engineered for long-term performance and are supported by an 8-year manufacturer's warranty. This reflects our confidence in their quality and our commitment to providing reliable, sustainable mobility solutions to our customers in Nepal.

End-of-Life Battery Management

Upon the conclusion of a battery's serviceable life, Changan International Corporation assumes full responsibility for its proper disposal. Our established recycling process is as follows:

- Used batteries are collected and transported to authorized recycling facilities.
- Each battery is evaluated to assess its condition and potential for reuse or repurposing.
- Batteries are safely discharged, dismantled, and sorted at the cell level.
- Recoverable materials — including lithium, cobalt, nickel, and manganese — are extracted through regulated chemical and metallurgical processes and reintroduced into the production cycle.
- All waste by-products generated during recycling are managed in strict compliance with environmental regulations.

We wish to assure the Department that our recycling operations adhere to all relevant environmental laws and standards, and that the protection of public health and the natural environment remain central to our business practices.

We remain available should the Department require any further information or documentation in this regard.

Yours Faithfully,
Changan International Corporation
